- 7:31 Vadere: foots have no value lol
- 7:33 Lornaallan: American language is different from British English. The similarity is confusing.
- 7:33 Pathworld: bloody well is mate
- 7:34 Lornaallan: George who?
- 7:35 Silverdale: George Baker in Seattle aka Silverdale ...
- 7:35 Lornaallan: ok
- 7:35 Pathworld: 24 on line and 33 viewers
- 7:37 Vadere: layman's terms

» the tibetan book written in layman's terms because you don't need to know spiritual lingo to understand it

- 7:40 Skafooti: Layman's terms might reach the mechanical mind, whereas story/myth coming from the essence of the people reaches the deeper, non formative part of us.

» That is good, Vadere, that one does not need spiritual lingo. With stories one does not need spiritual lingo.

» What about the idea of exoteric, mesoteric and esoteric schools, George?

- 7:49 Silverdale: Exoteric - bricks and mortar; mesoteric - awakening of the essential self as an independent presence; esoteric - preparation in a School for responsible life ...

- 7:58 Markcirka: if you can use it
- 7:58 Markroche: taunt
- 7:59 Markcirka: the magic cure is you - but whatever you have in your hands can be a good friend and take you places you might not otherwise go
- 7:59 Markroche: Batthra, would seem so. In any event, there are lots and lots of 'remedy' orbs, which would probably address, one way or the other, what you brought up
- 8:00 Skafooti: That was a brilliant statement....in the 'homeopathic sense', so we should not pass up on pondering that. THANK YOU.
